JOANNA BRADLEY GOURD ART / “EYE OF THE BEHOLDER”

Joanna Bradley works primarily with gourds but ventures into other areas of artistic expression on occasion. She has had a life-long interest in art which she has continued to pursue as a “hobby.” Some would argue that gourds are not fine art, but Joanna has discovered many talented gourd artists throughout the country. She loves color and likes to do art that makes people smile and feel good.

Joanna’s adult life has been spent in advertising related industries. She currently owns a small advertising agency that does only television advertising for the home remodeling industry. Sometimes she finds herself resenting her “real” job because it takes too much time from the thing she loves to do . . . gourd art!

She has participated in art shows and galleries for the last 19 years in New Mexico, Arizona, Missouri, Kansas and Texas. She has received several awards including the “most creative entry” at the Angel Fire New Mexico Art Festival.
